

1. Tourism research can be undertaken from various perspectives, including:
d. All of the above
2. Epistemology, ontology and methodology are the three realms addressed by:
c. Research paradigms
3. Subjective methods:
b. Are usually more time-consuming than empirical methods
4. Predictive research:
a. Is research aimed at anticipating the likely outcome of a course of action
5. Typically, the phases of a research project are, in this order:
d. Specification of goals, review of literature, research design, analysis, conclusions, communication of results

