KNOWLEDGE FOR LIFE

What do Member Countries mean to CABI?

- Owners
- Key stakeholders
- Partners
- Customers/users
- Family members
- Funders

“Promoting CABI’s membership as a unique two-way strategic partnership for the mutual benefit of Member Countries and CABI”

Collaboration on projects and programme development

(around 100 projects each year)

Agreeing and delivering joint action plans to meet Member needs

(up to 37 in total)

Contribution of Member fees to support CABI's mission

(overall payments improved steadily)

Hosting and working with CABI Centres and project offices

(significant support received from host Member Countries)

Participation in governance and strategy setting

(Regional Consultations and Review Conference)

Major support as donors

Member-member collaborations involving CABI

(there is an increased number of success stories)

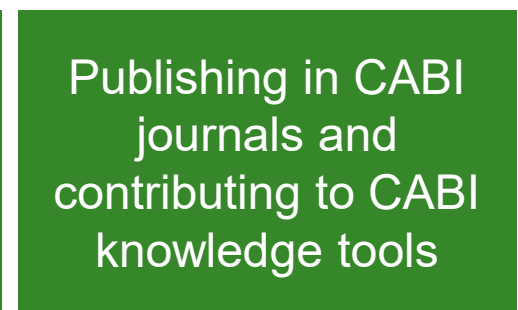

Receipt of tailored Member Country benefits

(Such as training and knowledge products)

Hosting delegations, visits and meetings; sharing insights and contacts

(much more active since the pandemic)

Publishing in CABI journals and contributing to CABI knowledge tools

(increased contributions received)

Member country (MC) relationships

Key contacts

- Liaison Officer (LO) based in the National Implementing Agency (NIA) – key in country contact co-ordinating joint work towards Member Country priorities
 - Executive Council member (ExCo member), usually based in diplomatic mission in London – votes on behalf of MC on CABI governance matters
- Regular interactions between LO and ExCo member very important

Member country (MC) relationships

Key stakeholders

- NIA & relevant national/subnational government ministries/agencies – widening range
- Academic/research/teaching/training institutions, civil society, private sector
- Smallholder farmers and rural communities
- Customers/consumers/users of knowledge resources and products, and microbial services

Action plans – aiming to address MC priorities

Developed with 37 countries since 2021

- Overview of the partnerships
- Priorities of the Member Country
- Focus – strategic areas for working together
- Tailored delivery of Membership benefits
- Joint actions (including timeline)

Need to be:

- SMART
- Up-to-date
- Jointly owned
- Broadly inclusive of MC stakeholders
- Appropriately resourced, and timely implemented

Challenges

Diversity of membership – range of demands

Varying levels of engagement – benefits not always taken up

Frequent changes of Liaison Officers and Executive Council members

Difficulties in delivering projects to Member Countries that are not priority countries for donors

Funding from traditional donors is shrinking /changing in focus

Opportunities

Member ownership of CABI promotes responsive approach and opportunities to work closely with national institutions

Pooled influence in areas like pesticide risk reduction and forums like G20-MACS – Members cover around 60% of the world's population

Platform for equitable interactions and knowledge exchange between Global North and Global South countries, for more triangular collaboration/south-south co-operation, with CABI acting as a bridge – e.g. successful technology transfers

Joint development of programmes and projects to address MC priorities and joint efforts to gain funding support for these

Triangular collaboration/south-south co-operations

A success story: a collaboration among CABI, China, Rwanda, Switzerland, and the UK to build local capacity in Rwanda for the mass production and use of beneficial nematodes

- Funded by the UK's FCDO, this project transferred technologies from China, with CABI leading project management and capacity building between 2014 and 2016
- Thanks to Rwandan governmental funds, the project has lived on at a facility in Rwanda, producing biological control agents to kill crop pests including the devastating fall armyworm

Today, Rwanda is celebrating 10+ years of biocontrol success with the facility producing over 100 billion insect-killing nematodes per batch, enough to treat more than 100 hectares of field crops or seed beds that can later be transplanted to over 800 hectares

This milestone has positioned Rwanda as a leader in biological pest control in Africa

Feedback sought from Liaison Officers and NIAs

Between Sept. and August. 2025, CABI sought feedback from Liaison Officers in the Asia-Pacific, Africa, and Americas regions and received useful feedback, which will guide the revisions of our Member Country Engagement strategy

The questions for the feedback focused on the Interaction with CABI (with example questions below)

- Which area of CABI work is most valued?
- What is the preferred route of engagement?
- What should CABI do to understand the needs of Member Countries better?
- How can CABI involve other departments and agencies with the support of Liaison Officers/NIAs?
- What can CABI learn from other membership/intergovernmental organizations on how to engage with and bring benefits to its Member Countries?
- Would you suggest any changes to CABI's governance arrangements?

Working together: Achieving more through Partnership Break-out discussion session (1)

Designed to build on the feedback received, dive deep into some aspects, and add new questions

Objectives:

- a. Optimise our ways of working together to ensure MC priorities are addressed
- b. Ensure that Member Countries get the broadest possible benefit from CABI membership
- c. Explore new models for MC-CABI collaborations and joint mobilisation of supporting resources
- d. Explore ways to increase triangular collaborations between MCs involving CABI

Working together: Achieving more through Partnership Break-out discussion session (2)

Themes and questions:

Engaging a broad range of stakeholders for action at the country level
(a and b above)

- Government
- National planning processes
- Private sector and national institutions
- Action Plans

Joint Project Development and Project Resourcing Strategies
(c and d above)

- Project development
- Funding opportunities
- Role of Liaison Officers
- Triangular co-operation

Delegates will be divided into three groups, including:

- 2 sub-regional groups consisting of Member Country representatives, other stakeholders, and Pesticide Risk Reduction experts from respective regions or internationally
- an additional Caribbean group, largely consisting of partners from the Caribbean (particularly Trinidad & Tobago)

Two CABI colleagues to act as a facilitator and scribe, respectively for each group

A Liaison Officer or partner to be nominated to report back on key outcomes from each groups

Plenary recap and discussion

Sub-regional Break-out Groups

Central and South America: Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, plus some partners and Pesticide Risk Reduction experts from this region (Facilitator: Yelitza Colmenarez; Scribe: Andy Robinson)

The Caribbean 1: Barbados, Bahamas, British Virgin Islands, Grenada, Guyana, Jamaica, Montserrat, plus partners and Pesticide Risk Reduction experts (Facilitator: Qiaoqiao Zhang; Scribe: Bryony Taylor)

The Caribbean 2: MALF of Trinidad & Tobago, plus partners and Pesticide Risk Reduction experts from TT (Facilitator: Naitram (Bob) Ramnanan; Scribe: Richard Shaw)
