1. Tourism research can be undertaken from various perspectives, including:
   d. All of the above

2. Epistemology, ontology and methodology are the three realms addressed by:
   c. Research paradigms

3. Subjective methods:
   b. Are usually more time-consuming than empirical methods

4. Predictive research:
   a. Is research aimed at anticipating the likely outcome of a course of action

5. Typically, the phases of a research project are, in this order:
   d. Specification of goals, review of literature, research design, analysis, conclusions, communication of results